Don't Tell Me

If I'd have known I would never let you drive

If I had a sign at all

But like all news, I heard way too late

Found out hours after curtain call

Why can't we see it all coming?

Maybe cause there is no master plan

And destiny's just a word we turn to

Explain away, the pain that we all have

Don't tell me

If only things

The things you would change

If only time would tell

Though it's been a while tomorrow never came

I watch her relive every day

Without you here it's too hard to compromise

I know she'll never be the same

You took away the best thing that she ever had

With you on the day you went away

Helplessly I've seen her going under

I've had to sit and watch her lose her faith

She has to pick herself up and try to dust herself off

But every morning when she wakes up

It's there

And she starts all over again
