Harder to Take

It's cold here, in silence

Together, divided

The distance between us

You could cut

The air with a knife

There's are so many things

That I'm trying to say

I should reach out and touch you

Lift your head and wipe the tears from your face

With each passing moment words get harder to say

Has time stopped? I can't tell

Locked here scared as hell

Baby ... you're feeling it too

The longer we wait

The harder to take